

American Red Cross

We'll be there to help you after the storm!

Gustav and its remnants continue to make life hard for residents of the Gulf Coast. After the storm, the American Red Cross will be there offering emergency assistance.

The Red Cross help will include the following:

- ❑ Sheltering for people who have lost power or otherwise find their homes unlivable.
- ❑ Mobile feeding trucks and kitchens in the hardest-hit areas for people who need water and a meal while cleaning up or because they have lost power.
- ❑ Emergency financial assistance based on significant structural damage to someone's home. Assessment teams will start visits to the affected areas, surveying the damage. That damage assessment will become the basis for our emergency financial assistance.
- ❑ Cleanup kits, including mop, broom, cleaning supplies, work gloves and similar items.
- ❑ Emotional counseling and support. We recognize this has been a very difficult time for the people of the Gulf Coast.

When people come back home,
the Red Cross will be there, too.
